

Helping families grow in faith despite hustle of modern world

“New guide for busy families offers answers to children’s many biblical questions

TONKAWA, Okla. – For parents looking for a place to start when teaching their children about Christ and the Bible, Nancy Ruth’s “The Answer Book” is the ideal solution.

This unique Bible study guide addresses the struggles and temptations that children face at an early age and provides a guide for parents to help teach their children to grow with them through faith. “The Answer Book” is broken down into a seven-week regiment with daily lessons for parents and children to work on together.

“Children need to be equipped to live boldly and confidently for Christ, no matter what,” said Nancy. “Parents are the best people to teach them how to do that. Many are just looking for the right tools.”

Based on her more than ten years of experience working with children and families in churches and schools across the country, Ruth’s book stems from questions that she was frequently asked by her young students and their parents. “The Answer Book” is a tool for those parents to help them teach their children to live for Christ in today’s world.

“It is hard to find a family Bible study in the market today,” said Nancy. “The Bible studies for kids that I have found are story Bibles or studies for kids who are new Christians. What do you do after that? What about families who want to study the Bible together?”
